Services - www.chubbgateleyuk.com

Chubb have partnered with national law firm, Gateley PLC, to provide your clients with added value services to help your clients avoid any potential Employment Practice or Directors or Officers incidents that may arise.

What does the helpline provide?

Access to up to 42 minutes advice from the Gateley teams on any one employment issue or regulatory matter.

The purpose of the helpline is to provide initial legal guidance (by telephone) on matters which may result in a claim under the Not For Profit insurance policy.

Independent and confidential guidance is provided by qualified, experienced and specialist solicitors.

It includes a preliminary review by email of standard correspondence and documents.

State of the art technology gives each adviser on line access to your matter and any previous advice preventing duplication and ensuring an efficient service.

Available from 8.30am until 5.30pm, Monday to Friday (excluding public holidays)

What is not covered by the helpline service?

Detailed consideration of documents/evidence is outside the scope of the helpline as is amending and/or drafting documents.

It does not include guidance on matters involving collective employment law rights (for example, it does not include collective consultation redundancy procedures or TUPE consultation procedures).

The helpline function is not intended to be used as a substitute for comprehensive legal advice and/or representation and the helpline is not intended for use where the insurance policy has triggered.

What limits are available?

The following Limits of Liability are the maximum available for this product; Limits will be considered upon request and may vary.
